

Emile C. Coetzee is a lecturer in History at the North-West University's Mahikeng Campus. He completed his MA degree (at NWU Vaal) about the alleged corruption committed in the South African Defence Force and Department of Defence from 1957 to 1964. He is enrolled at the same NWU campus for his PhD in History. He researches South African political, military and crime history and has a fondness for writing biographies. In his spare time, he works on the Road Trip SA smartphone application that shows where all South Africa's places of interests are located and what the meaning of each one is.
