

Marlino Eugénio Mubai is Assistant Professor of History at Eduardo Mondlane University in Mozambique (EMU) and Research Associate in the Department of Heritage and Historical Studies at Pretoria University, South Africa. He also serves as Deputy Director for Graduate Studies in the Faculty of Arts and Social Sciences at (EMU). He holds a Ph.D. in History from the University of Iowa in the USA and a Master's Degree in Heritage and Cultural Studies from the University of Pretoria in South Africa. His research focuses on the entanglement of ecological processes with social and political issues in the making of History. His publications cover transdisciplinary themes including warfare, peace building, human rights, religion, education, climate change and socio-ecological services in historical perspective.

<https://www.researchgate.net/profile/Marlino-Mubai>